

TREE BEINGS

RAYMOND HUBER & SANDRA SEVERGNINI
WITH FOREWORD BY DR JANE GOODALL

SHORTLISTED FOR THE WILDERNESS SOCIETY'S
ENVIRONMENT AWARD FOR CHILDREN'S LITERATURE 2021 (NONFICTION CATEGORY)

Wilderness Society's Environment Award for Children's Literature recognises the best children's nature books, promoting a love of the natural world in future generations.

We are delighted that Tree Beings has been shortlisted for this prestigious award in the nonfiction category for 2021, with judge, Sadie Chrestman, describing it as "a really beautiful book that taps into the joy of being with trees".

With a foreword by the world-renowned anthropologist Jane Goodall, Tree Beings is an adventure through the secret world of trees. Challenging the perception that trees are just 'silent statues', it focuses on four big ideas:

- TREES GIVE LIFE TO THE PLANET.
- TREES CAN HELP SAVE US FROM CLIMATE CHANGE.
- TREES ARE LIKE BEINGS.
- TREES NEED OUR HELP AND PROTECTION.

Along the way, you'll meet some of the scientists and explorers who helped uncover the mysteries of the world's oldest living things. You'll encounter the eccentric British professor who travelled the world for seventy years telling people how trees can save us, and you'll learn about the 9-year-old-boy who has a plan to plant a trillion trees to save the planet!

Trees are essential to our world. Tree Beings is your guide to appreciating trees through the stories of people who love them. So strap on your hiking boots, and enjoy this informative adventure through the wonderful world of Tree Beings!
